Message from Mrs Parsons

This week at Ulcombe School, I've really enjoyed teaching in Barn Owls on Wednesday, where there has been lots of enthusiasm and thoughtful learning.

I also had the pleasure of speaking to the whole school about spirituality, and the children shared some brilliant ideas about how we can recognise and celebrate our 'Wow Moments' in school.

I've also enjoyed visiting maths lessons across the school and talking to the children about their fantastic learning and problem-solving. Keep an eye out for a new display in the hall, coming very soon, which will showcase these special moments.

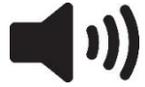

This week's worship focused on Jesus as the Light of the World (Matthew 4:15–17). Children explored Isaiah's prophecy, written hundreds of years before Jesus' birth, and reflected on how it points to Jesus as the bright light shining into darkness. Through discussion and the artwork Light of the World by William Holman Hunt, they considered what "darkness" might mean in the world and in their own lives, and how Jesus brings light, joy, and hope. The time concluded with quiet reflection and simple, practical ways children can share that light each day through kindness, helping others, and listening with care.
