Message from Mrs Parsons

A shorter week this week due to Inset Day tomorrow but still full of learning! It was lovely to see so many of you this afternoon at our parents evening. I hope you found these conversations helpful with your child's teacher to find out how they are getting on. If you missed this and would like to talk to your child's teacher, please speak to the office to arrange a phone call.

We also had a brilliant morning taking part in the big question this morning. The whole school gathered in the hall to discuss our achievements from the year, discussing our favourite lessons, topics, clubs and trips etc. We thought about next year and what we would like to see more and less of. I was listening carefully! Well done to the school councils too who were able to tell us about their achievements this year.

This week in worship, we focused on the theme of respect, one of our school values and more specifically treating everyone with dignity.

The Good Samaritan (Luke 10:27– 28)

He answered, "Love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your strength and with all your mind"; and, 'Love your neighbour as yourself.'"

"You have answered correctly," Jesus replied. "Do this and you will live."

We thought about this using a crumpled paper heart. Every time someone says something unkind to us, the paper heart folds more. When it is smoothed out, it doesn't fully go back. We thought about what respect looks like in everyday life and how we can continue to respect each other with words and actions.
